New Orleans, Oct. 26 .- The city has all day been filled with exciting rumors of trouble in St. Bernard parish, adjoining New Orleans, below the city. From information brought to headquarters by the Sheriff of the parish and others, it appears that a mark in most of his calculations and assertions. It is understood he concocted this document without sonsulting any of his intimate friends. The impression is abroad that in a short time he will advocate a killed. One of the latter was a member of the new Metropolitan Police force. burned to the ground. His wife escaped with a child in her arms.

Two other houses are reported burned, in one of which four children are said to have been killed.

The rumors are various and conflicting as to the extent of the outrages. Many of the white inhabitants of the parish deserted their houses last night, and fled to this city.

Early this mornine, upon the first notification of trouble, Gen. Buchanan ordered a company of infantry to march down the river. Later in the day he despatched another company of the First Infantry in the same direction on the steamer Elia Morse, in the standard of the ring-leaders who could be found. It is currently reported this evening that the first body of infantry were attacked, but by what body of men it is not ascertained. Staff officers have been despatched to investigate the matter.

tacked, but by what body of men it is not assertained. Staff officers have been despatched to investigate the matter.

When the runor spread this morning, large numbers of white men congregated on the levee in the lower part of the city, and chartered three steamings to convey them to the scene of action, but were prevented from leaving the city by order of Gen. Rousseau, as the number of troops sent was sufficient to resure order.

The disturbed condition of affairs has deterred the Internal Revenue officials from entering the parish to-day for the discharge of their duties. Prominent members of both parties had an interview with Gen. Rousseau to-day, and mutually agreed to discountenance, and prevent as far as possible, any further public political demonstrations.

Gen Rousseau intends removing all the troops in this vicinity into the city to prevent a recurrence of the scene of last Saturday night. The recent disturbances demonstrated the utter helplessness of the civil Government. No effort on its part appears to have been made until the soldlers appeared on the ground. On Saturday night, for two hours after the riot on Canal street, not a ingle policeman was to be seen, though numbers were congregated in St. Charles street, within four blocks of the scene of the disturbance.

charles street, within four blocks of the scene of the disturbance.

Registration closed here on Saturday. Forty-three thousand names were registered. The largest vote ever polled nere before was $9.000.

It is said efforts are being made by prominent Radicals to have martial law declared in the State, hoping thus to prevent an election. It is most probable, however, that if the State is placed under martial law Gen. Rousseau will order the election to proceed. It is also rumored to night that the Radicals contemplate allowing the election, should it be held, to go by default, and have the vote of the State thrown out on the ground of illegality.

Several club parades were advertised by both parties to take place to-night, but will probably be given up. given up.

New Obleans, Oct. 25—10 P. M.—About 8 o'clock to-night the white clubs marched from all prits of the city under their officers, armed with every conceivable weapon, and formed quietly, in perfect order, in Lafayette square and the streets around the City Hall. The officers of the clubs watted on the Mayor and offered their services to patrol the streets. Not a negro policeman and very rew white ones have been seen on the streets, capecially on the outskirts of the city, since the Saturday night fight. The Mayor informed them that there was no occasion for their services, as Gen. Rousscau had informed him that he would take charge of the pence of the city to-night.

The crowd to the number of several thousand assembled around the steps of the City Hall, where they were addressed by Gen. Steadman, Sate Senator Ogden, Mayor Conway, Harry S. Hayes, and Shariff Maxwell, all of whom advect them to retire peaceably to their homes. Len. Steadman and Senator Ogden stated that Gov. Warmonth had to-day waited on Gen. Rousscau, and Sendered him the entire control of the State Government, which ten. Rousscau declined; but to-night, in view of the threatening aspect of affairs, he ordered the troops to pariol the city. They are now dispersed all over the city, comprising all branches of the service.

Harry S. Hays in his speech, stated that Superintendent of police Williamson had waited on the Folice Board, and informed them he had stricken the name of every negro off the police rolls. If his action were not concurred in it would be utterly impossible to preserve peace in the city. The Devil in Bracken County, Ky.

The Devil in Bracken County, Ky.

Brooksville, Ky., Oct. 19, 1868.

To the Editors of the Enquirer:

A wonderful phenomenon has recently made its appearance on Willow creek. In Bracken county, about two miles from Brooksville, and has been seen by quite a number of the worthy; citizens of our county. Our people have been in a constant state of excitement since it first made its appearance.

On the 10th inst., one of our citizens, a prominent tobacco merchant residing in Brooksville, was returning home from the southern portion of the county, where he had been buying some crops of tobacco, and, being belated, was riching along the road, when suddenly he beheld a frightful object in the indide of the road immediately in front of him. I will give you the description of it as I heard it from his lips:

"The object was about six feet in height, and walked upright. The face was at times that of a man, very pale, with earls of flame lading over his shoulders; eyes of sulphurous blue, changing constantly in size, one moment large as a tin cup, and then gradually decreasing in size until it was almost invisible.

very paie, with carls of flame islaing over his shouldings; eyes of sulphurous blue, changing constantly in size, one moment large as a tin cup, and then gradually decreasing in size until it was almost invisible. Its arms were those of a man, and hands deadly paie. In one hand it held a torch, and in the other a sword that seemed to be about four feet in length. Its lower extremity was that of a horse, with legs well proportioned, and hoofs as those of a horse. Its tail, which was about three feet intength, was of fitne. Its breath was a solid sheet of fire, which vibrated with the heavings of its breast, like the pendulum of a clock. It was certainly the most rightful object I ever beheld. It walked off to the side of the road, and then vanished. Then it disappeared I immediately put spurs to my horse and galloped by the spot where I had seen it. When I arrived at the summit of the hill, about two hundred yards off. I looked back and saw the object in the same spot where I first beheld it. I stopped my horse and watched it for a moment, it walked over to the left is de of the road, and mounting a rail fence that stood there, commenced running toward me. I did not stay to see the remainder of the drama."

He immediately rode to town, and having told the adventure to some of the citizens, they immediately formed a party and started out to see the strange visitant. Lawyers, doctors, preachers, and tradesmen, armed with guns and pistols, unde their way on masse to the scene of this strange adventure. When they sarived at the spot, some of them beheld the spectre and others could not see it. It way, when they saw it, on the fence, and running rapidly along up and down it past the crowd, for the distance of a quarter of a mile. As it passed the crowd several fired at it, but with no effect.

About II o'clock it vanished, and was seen no more that night. Since then it has been seen every night at the same place. Hundreds of visitors have been on hand overy night, and the excitement is at a very high state now, and i

They have found that the Union, "one and indivisible," is a fixed fact in the hearts of the people. They have appealed to the passions and the reliminess of the masses, and they have found that the American people, as a mass, as well as individuals, are in favor of paying dollar for dollar every obligation which the Government of the nation has either expressed or implied.

Beaten, as we have said, on all the issues which have been discussed during the campaign, they now make a general and desperate assault on the great stronghold of republican institutions. Despairing of success by any other means, they now propose and purpose to make that great stegguard of democratic government—the ballot-box—through corruption, the means of thwarting the will of the people, and giving them the semblance of success by a system of frauds unparalleled in the history of nations. We need only to have pointed to the late election in Pennsylvania to prove this assertion, were if not that the judicial records of our own State furnish conclusive proof that the frauds which diagraced the context in Pennsylvania have been more than counterparted in our own State. CHAMPIONSHIP.

The grand contest for the whip pennant, the emblem of the championship, and the Clipper gold ball, took place yesterday on the Union grounds, Brooklyn, and this locality was crowded with people as it never was before, the estimate being that over 15,000 spectators witnessed the proceedings. The

as it never was before, the estimate being that over 10,000 spectators witnessed the proceedings. The two clubs had out their best nines, and they were never more evenly matched than on this occasion. The weather was fine, they had a first-rate umpire, and an orderly assemblage. The game began at $10 P. M., with the Atlantics at the but, every one eagerly watching the movements of the players. Pearce opened play at the but, but he sent the built too near McMahon to be safe, and retired. Smith followed, but he, too, was easily disposed of at first base, and though Start and Chapman both made their base, and though Start and Chapman both made their base, and though Start and Chapman beth made their base, and though Start and Chapman beth made their base, and though Start and Chapman beth made their base, and though Start and Chapman beth made their base, and though Start and Chapman beth made their base, and though Start and Chapman beth made the sored, and the Atlantics retired a whitewashed purty, amiliet the applanas of the Mutual partisans. But the other side had the same chance offered them to crow, for the Mutuals were put out in one, two, three order by the fine fly-catches of McDonaldand a beauty by Start. This was close work, and a fine contest was now looked fervard to.

The second inning resulted similarly on both sides, neither aine being allowed to score a run, and things began to look as if the fight was going to be a remarkable one, especially when at the close of the third inning it was found that and had one run on their score books, the good bits made by Pearce and Chapman getting the Atlantic expensed well at the bart, securing two runs without losing a band; but after Zettlein had batted well for the base, the next three strikers were handsomely put out by Mills and Fianly. The Mutuals were lacky enough to a special part of the fight main go for six runs, Swandel making a clear home run by a splendid hall to left field, the Mutuals thereby taking the lead in the game amidst a perfect storm of of the Mutuals, the best half of the game being now over.

Thus far the contest had been a sort of "nip and tuck" affair, neither nine having much to brag of in the way of superior play, but the Mutuals had done the best batting so far. The sixth inning was now commenced, and though in the first part of it it looked bad for the Atlanties, they railied well afterwards and scored five runs. Grane sha McDonald scoring home runs, the right field being rather weak on the Mutual side. This gave the lead temporarily to the Atlanties, and they began to think that things were now getting safe; but the Mutuals yet had an innings play to get square, and by a truly brilliant display at the bat they not only secured the lead again, but got their opponents quite demoralized, so much so that they put Zettlein into the out field and sent in Chapman to pitch after five runs had been scored. By fielding errors the Mutuals added four more runs off Chapman's fielding, and the close of the sixth inning left them in the vun by the totals of it to 19, a most important advantage at such a stage of the contest.

The game had now reached a decely interesting the contest.
The game had now reached a deeply interesting of the contest.

The game had now reached a deeply interesting position, and the thousands present were kept on the tiptoe of expectation in regard to the dual issue. The style in which the Matuals were handling the ash gave favorable promise of victory, but the Atlanties were known to be great boys to raily, and they had already been very jucky in two innings. This season, however, the Mutuals have played with more determination and pluck than ever before, and lately have made a marked improvement in their style of batting, while on the other hand the Atlanties have frequently lacked to their old feeling of confidence, and unquestionably have deterioated at the bat. So the hopes of success for the Mutual party were based on a good foundation, as the final result proved. The sixth inning proved to be the turning point in the game, for though the Atlanties railied well in the eighth luning, the Mutuals had previously secured too great an advance in the race to be overtaken. When the Atlanties entered upon their ninth inning the score stood at 17 to 21 against them, and their last inning saw them retire for a blank score, and as a defeated nine. On the other side the Mutuals closed the game with some more good batting, and finally came in the victors by the grand totals of 64 to 51, and also the title to fly the whip pennant as the champion club of the United States, the first time the club have ever been champions. The game was admirably umpired by Mr. Goldle, and everything passed off orderly and creditably to all parties concerned. We append the full score of the match.

On Wednesday the Mutuals play their third gam-with the Unions of Morrisania, and should they lose the Unions will again be champions virtually. The Actives also have a chance with the Mutuals on Sat-urday. Trotting on the Fashion Course, L. I.

Military Inspection Yesterday.

Military Inspection Yesterday,
Yesterday the Fourth (Veteran Zouaves) Regiment, commanded by Lieut-Col. Maxwell, and the Sixty-ninth Regiment, commanded by Lieut-Col. Hargous, were reviewed and inspected in Tompkins square by Brig. Gen. Liebenau, Assistant Inspector-General, and Brig. Gen. Lloyd Aspinwell, commanding the Fourth Brigade. Among the spectators present were Brevet Brig. Gen. Bendiz, commanding the Third Brigiment Zonaves, Col. Lux, of the Eleventh Regiment, and Col. Cavanagh, of the Sixty-ninth Regiment. The recent death of the wife of the Ister explains the fact of his not being at the head of his regiment yesterday. The turnout of both regiments was very slim, that of the Fourth especially so. The marching and wheelings were good. Both commands looked well, and would have made an excellent appearance but for their pancity of numbers. The following are the numbers present of the Fourth Regiment, according to the returns of Adjutant Davis:

Field officers, 2; commissioned staff, 1, non-commissioned staff, 5; Company A, 41, Company B, 11; Company C, 31, Company B, 10, Company B, 11; Company C, 31, Company B, 10, Company B, 11, Company C, 13, Company B, 10, Company B, 11, Comp

REMOVAL OF THE COUNTY CLERK'S OFFICE.the building. It is much to be regretted that these rooms are the darkest in the whole building, as they are in a low position and placed so contiguous to the old brown-stone building that the light is obstructed. Mr. Loow, however, has laid out his rooms to the best possible advantage. The business of the office will be transacted in the extreme corner of the building. By the front wall of the building the Deputy County Clerk, Equity Clerk, and the other gentiemen who have charge of certain bureaus, will have their desks and books placed. The apartment has been partitioned off so that persons going into the main office cannot approach the desks or encroach upon the room in which the clerks are engaged. Lawyers will have the use of a large table at the side of the room near the hallway, in order to examine papers that are placed on file. A small room between the main office and the Scarchor's office will be occupied exclusively by the County Clerk. The papers which are to be kept on file will be placed in immense safe and closets ranged against the walls, and will reach from the floor to the ceiling.
